The large auditorium of Fourth Street M. E. Church was filled last evening to its utmost capacity to hear the subject, Summer Stock ! "the coffee houses of wheeling shall we do with them?" discussed by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Westwood. Long before the hour for services to begin, every pew, the aisles, vestibule, and stairway landings were occupied, and hundreds had to be turned away for want of room. After the usual opening exercises. Dr. W. anounced as his text the last clause of the 5th verse of the 13th chapter of Deuteronomy: "So shalt thou put the evil away from the midst of thee."

After appropriate introductory remarks, Dr. W. proceeded to discuss the question as follows:

The consideration of the Coffee House question has reached the point at which the pertinent inquiry comes up, what shall be done with them? If they be of any use, or if they be at all necessary, they should be continued; if not, or if it can be shown that they exert a balchul influence upon the community, they should be abolished. that they exert a balchi influence upon the community, they should be abolished, or such measures should be abopted as will tend to circumscribe their influence, or to protect those who may be in danger from them iness that he may choose to pursue. To this it may be answered: Not so. Lot-teries, the slave trade, and some other branches of business are not allowed. Li-censes to follow these are not granted, beuse they are against the common weal.

2. A man needs some place of entertain-

2. A man needs some place of entertainment, where he may repair for recreation and rest. Answer: The many thousands of young men and women who are lying around idle and dissipated rise in judgment upon the paternal neglect they experienced in former years, while their fathers were seeking recreation. The home is the place for rest, and the family is the society that a man needs. That man s the society that a man needs. That man who seeks occasion to absent himself from who seeks occasion to absent himself from his home is not of so fine an organization as to need relief from bodily or mental fatigue. Fresh air, flowers, music, elevating conversation, reading, paintings, poetry—all of which may be had In some measure by all men—will rest and refresh. Little, if any, of these will be found in salonous whose atmosther is stilling whose statement of the second whose atmosther is stilling whose the second whose atmosther is stilling whose statements. loons, whose atmosphere is stifling, whose flowers die, whose music is always coarse, whose conversation is low, whose reading whose conversation is low, whose reading is common, whose paintings are vulgar and whose poetry is ribald.

And then, women need recreation as much as men, our daughters and wives as much as our sons and ourselves. And yet who would think of taking the females of his family into these places? Admitting the need for recreation, as I do, I claim that the saloon is not the place. that the saloon is not the place.

3. We have been accustomed to our beverage all through our lives. In our beverage all through our lives. In our fatherland, and on the sunsy slopes of our vine clad hills, we drank our beer and sipped our wine, no one daring to molest us. We claim the same right here. Why, then, did you leave the home of your birth? Is it modest to come here with foreign customs? As well might a Hottentot claim his right in midsummer to make a section of the same of the same of the suns of the same appear upon our streets in scanty garb, or an Englishman refuse to abide by Republican rules, because he was accustom publican rules, because he was accustoment.

CITIZENS, NOT SALOON KEEPERS. CITIZENS, NOT BALOON KEEPERS.

I beg leave to say that I shall most cheerfully answer them, although I am not bound in justice or courtesy to pay any attention to anonymous communications. I answer these question for two reasons: 1st, because they are respectful in their tone; and 2d, because if I do not answer them. It may be said by designing answer them, it may be said by designing persons that I am afraid or unable to meet persons that I am afraid of unable to meet them. But I wish it to be distinctly un-derstood that, in the luture, I shall not regard mysell as obliged to answer any questions or communications that may be addressed to me, especially if unac-companied by respectable and responsi-ble names. Nor shall I allow myself to be drawn into a newspance or pulvis ble names. Nor shall I allow myself to be drawn into a newspaper or pulpit controversy. My course shall be straight forward, despite any efforts on the part of others to divert attention from the main question by presenting side issues, With this understanding I take up the queries. As I do not know that liquor is sold for other than medicinal purposes, in any of our drug stores; or that any of the mem-bers of my congregation have made mon-

bers of my congregation have made money by "selling whisky;" or that any Methodist preachers visit "coffee houses;

or such measures should be adopted as will tend to circumscribe their influence, or to protect those who may be in danger from them.

The most frequent reasons given for the free and unrestricted license of saloons are in themselves weak and frivolous.

1. A man has a right to follow any business that he may choose to pursue. To this it may be answered. Not so. Lotteres, the slave trade, and some other branches of business are not allowed. Licenses to follow these are not granted, because the sale of liquer in drug stores, if the druggist should not be imposed upon and I can readily see how he might be, but if he should know, as the saloon keeper surely does, that the liquor is to be everage, would be, in my opinion, as wrong as its sale in "coflee houses," and as the questions are not at all specific, or the reputational hands have reported to them, I regard them as hypothetical.

1. The sale of liquer in drug stores, if the druggist should not be imposed upon and I can readily see how he might be, but if he should know, as the saloon keeper surely does, that the liquor is to be everage, would be, in my opinion, as wrong as its sale in "coflee houses," and would receive from me the same condemnation.

2. Any member of any congregation in the city of Wheeling, who, while accumulating a fortune in the liquor business, would have the moral courage to give it up, should be honored, and the more so if he would "bring forth fruits meet for repentance," in honest endeavors to advance the cause of Christ by abundant alms and noble deeds. He would bear his patent of respectability from God, who has declared "Let the wicked forsake his way and the unrighteous man his thought;
and let him return unto the Lord and He will have mercy upon him; and to our will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon."

(Isaiah Iv. 7).

3. Any minister of the Gospel, who would visit "Coffee Houses," except to snatch a soul from hell, or to do some other deed of mercy, would act very imprudently; and any preacher who would visit them for the purpose of drinking, should be deposed at once. If allowed by his congregation to remain among them, he would be, in my opinion, a blind leader of the blind. "And if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch."—(Matthew xv,

Dismissed—In last Monday's paper we stated that M. L. Hill had been summoned before Judge Johnston for trespassing on land claimed to have been leased by Powell Wharton. The investigation was continued until last Saturday, to enable the defendant to have his witnesses present. The case was thoroughly examined Saturday morning and resulted in the dismissal of the charge against Mr. Hill.
